THE LEGISLATURE.

SIXTY-FIRST DAY.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 10.

Morning Session.

Prayer at 10 o'clock. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the Clerk at 10:05. Interpreter Wilcox being absent his duties were undertaken by Sergeant-at-Arms Testa, who read the minutes in Hawaiian. Minutes were approved as read.

Rep. W. C. Wilder from the Committee on Commerce reported on a petition to make Waimea, Kauai, a port of entry, and to the effect that there was a bill now before the Assembly to create Makaweli, Kauai, a port of entry. The two places mentioned were very close together, and the committee favored the location and prospective advance of Makaweli over those of Waimea. On motion the report was tabled for consideration with the bill.

Rep. Wilder also reported on the following petitions which had been referred to the Committee on Commerce, viz:

(1) That a law be passed compelling fish to be sold by the pound and at not more than five cents per pound. The committee say that this is a matter over which the House has no control, and they recommend that the petition be tabled. Report adopted. (2) That $1000 be appropriated to be used at the discretion of the Minister of the Interior for the purpose of establishing the carrying of messages by carrier pigeons. The committee recommend $500. Tabled for Appropriation Bill.

Noble Williams from the Printing Committee said that the Hawaiian version of the Report of Visiting Committee to the Leper Settlement was ready. Ordered to be distributed.

Noble Neumann from the Judiciary Committee reported on various petitions and bills as follows:

1. In re-reimbursement of Hon. A. Horner, member from N. Hilo, and Mr. James Mattoon of the sum of $25 each. The committee consider that it would be unjust that the candidates be made to pay the election fee for the void election, and recommend that the sum of $50 be appropriated for the re-payment of $25 to each of those two candidates. Report adopted. 2. That all gambling be legalized by licensing. Committee recommend petition be tabled. Report ordered for consideration with bills on the subject. 3. That leprosy should void the marriage contract. The committee say that the law now makes leprosy a ground for divorce. The committee recommend that the petition be tabled. Report adopted. 4. That the franchise of voting be taken away from Portuguese residents. Committee say that a law to that effect would be unconstitutional and therefore cannot further be considered. They recommend that it be tabled and left there. Adopted. 5. That the district of Hamakua be divided. The committee is of opinion that the present time is not exactly fitted to carry out this proposition, and therefore recommend that the petition be tabled for the present. Report tabled for consideration with a bill on the subject. 6. On Bill 107, which limits the right of widows to assert their claim to inheritance to the period of two years. The committee consider that there is no necessity for such a law, leaving aside the fact that it is impolitic, aggressive and unjust. They recommend that the bill be tabled. Report adopted. 7. A bill providing that legal advertisements should be published in such papers as may be selected by the attorney of the parties who are obliged to publish such advertisements. The committee presented an amended bill and recommend its passage. Tabled for bill. 8. Relative to radical and irreconcilable differences in the statutes in the languages. The committee say that the object sought cannot be obtained by the bills, and they recommend the bills (117 and 119) be tabled. Report adopted.

Rep. Wilder from the Committee on Commerce reported on Bill 92, to encourage the cultivation of coffee and ramie by exempting for the next ten years all appliances used in their cultivation. The committee recommend the bill pass. Report tabled for consideration with the bill.

Minister Widemann answered questions presented by Rep. Kapahu, and by means of a letter from Hon. W. James Smith, secretary of the Board of Education, to the effect that the questions were fully explained on page 11 of the English version of the Report of the Board of Education, and pages 13 and 14 of the Hawaiian. (2) The Board cannot promise the erection of any new schoolhouses, nor the establishment of any new schools until the appropriations shall have been made.

On motion the answers were referred to the Committee on Education.

Noble Marsden, under suspension of the rules, gave notice of and read for the first and second times a bill relative to the taxing of legacies, bequests, and inheritances. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Noble Neumann from the Judiciary Committee presented a report upon Bill 106, relating to the repeal of an act requiring drivers to obtain licenses to follow their vocation whenever they change employers. The committee consider the bill proper, and recommend that it pass with an amended title. Report tabled for consideration with the bill.

At 11:05 on motion of Rep. Robert Wilcox, the Order of the Day was brought up and the Assembly resolved into Committee of the Whole for consideration of the Appropriation Bill, Rep. Kaunamano in the chair.

The Clerk read the report of the Special Committee having consideration of the item relative to "Pay of Shorthand Reporter, $9000." The Committee recommend the item pass.

Rep. Kanealii moved that the item be struck out, nobody but the writer could read the chicken scratches of the reporter.

Rep. Bipikane favored retrenchment, he moved $5000.

Rep. Iosepa saw, in looking over the past appropriations, that $4000 would be plenty.

Noble Pua, this was the place to retrench and not on the pay of Queen's Guards; he moved the item pass at $2400.

Noble J. M. Horner, from his standpoint, now regarded the item as a luxury, only the higher judges and higher lawyers obtained the benefits of this man's services. He thought the position could be dispensed with.

Rep. Smith said the employment of a shorthand reporter was a positive economy; it benefited the people by the reduction of time in trials and the obtaining of accurate reports.

Noble Young considered that it was very necessary to have the services of a competent man. Methods for facilitating labor were being constantly presented and this was one. He thought the item should pass as presented or be struck out altogether.

Noble Peterson said that Noble Horner advanced the argument that the reporter was only of benefit to the judges and lawyers; he might have gone a step further and said that courts were of benefit to judges and lawyers. Would he have the courts abolished? He related the inception and continuance of the movement to obtain a shorthand reporter. The position was not one easy to fill and as a matter of fact there was not one other man in town who could take the place of the present incumbent; he approved of $5,000.

Noble Thurston said that $1800 was enough. He would be sorry to lose the services of the present incumbent but $200 per month was a very good salary. The work was purely mechanical and required quickness. Thought that Mr. Arthur Wilder, who had been employed by him at various times, was as competent as Mr. Jones; he had never seen any difference in their work.

The motion was finally put on the item and it passed at $1800.

At 12:10 the committee took recess until 1:30 o'clock.

WILLIAM GREIG DEAD.

Death of the "King of Fanning Island," at San Francisco.

Captain William Greig, a widely known British shipmaster and owner of Fanning and Washington Islands, died July 27 at his residence on the corner of McAllister and Fillmore streets, San Francisco. The body was embalmed and sent to Fanning Island by the brig George H. Douglas, which sailed for thence on Monday, August 1.

Before the removal of the body to the vessel, funeral services were held in the Masonic Temple by the fraternity. The chief mourners were Miss Lizzie Greig, Miss Margaret Greig, James Greig, and Captain and Mrs. Reid, the last-named being the eldest daughter of the lamented gentleman, and her husband captain of the George H. Douglas.

Among those who attended the last honors were a group of native boys who had been in the employ of Captain Greig from childhood. Their grief at the bier of their employer and friend was touching in the extreme. They return with the dead body of their master to their island home.

The late Capt. Greig was seventy-one years of age at death. Mr. W. H. C. Greig, salesman at Lewers & Cooke's, Honolulu, is one of his sons. The following notes on the life of the departed veteran are from the San Francisco Chronicle:

"King" Greig, as he was called of late years, left Scotland twenty-five years ago for Honolulu, where he built himself a small schooner. He had previously been in command of several ships, and on one trip across the Pacific ocean became impressed that there was much money to be made as a trader among the islands of the South seas. With this idea in view he set sail in his schooner from Honolulu, and was successful from the start. On one of his voyages he touched on Fanning Island. He was quite delighted with his discovery, took possession of the island in the name of the Queen of England, and decided to make his home there. There were large and rich guano deposits on the island, besides groves of coconut palms. There was also good pearl fishing. About 700 natives lived on the island, and they made no objection to the Captain coming among them to live, and soon began to call him "King."

"Greig then went to Honolulu, where Major Wodehouse, then British Commissioner, formally gave him a flag for British protection. The captain loaded all his belongings on the schooner, and with his family left for his island kingdom. There he built himself a house and lived in tropical luxury until of late years, when he made frequent trips to this city, where his children have been educated. During his residence at the island he accumulated quite a fortune from copra, guano and pearl shells, and employed nearly 300 natives in getting cargoes ready for shipment in this city.

"About two years ago the captain added Washington Island, which is near Fanning Island, to his possessions by planting the British flag on it and claiming it for the Queen. The island was fairly productive and helped to swell the king's revenue.

"In the recent survey made by the British Government for a submarine cable between New Zealand and Honolulu, Fanning Island, some 1000 miles south of the latter place, is designated as a cable station.

The Call says: "Mrs. Greig is at her home on Fanning Island, and will know nothing of her bereavement until the brig bears the body of her husband into his coral harbor home. A costly tombstone, properly inscribed, accompanies the remains, and on that tropic reef known as Fanning's Island will mark the last resting place of a man whose life was full of strange adventure, remarkable activity and varied usefulness."
